RE: United States Forest Service's March 1, 2010 revised preliminary 4(e) conditions for the McCloud Pit Hydroelectric Project (FERC No. P-2106)

Submitted via facsimile (202-205-1604)

Dear Sir or Madam:

American Whitewater and Friends of the River respectfully notify the United States Forest Service (USFS) that we reserve the right, pursuant to section 4(e) of the Federal Power Act, to request a trial-type hearing to resolve disputed issues of material fact or to file alternative conditions with respect to the USFS' March 1, 2010 revised preliminary 4(e) conditions for Pacific Gas and Electric's (PG&E) McCloud-Pit Hydroelectric Project (FERC No. P-2106).

On January 29, 2010, the USFS submitted its preliminary 4(e) conditions for the McCloud-Pit Project. However, on March 1, 2010, the USFS submitted revised preliminary 4(e) conditions for this project, amending Part 1 of its Preliminary Condition #19, which addressed instream flows on the Lower McCloud River below the McCloud Dam. In the March 1 filing, the USFS further indicated that it intended to submit its revised conditions as its final 4(e) conditions; and that PG&E intended to file a substantively identical set of alternative conditions. In its March 1, 2010 filing with the Commission, USFS stated that the intent of its negotiations with PG&E "was to develop a flow alternative that would better meet the needs of both parties, and to avoid an unnecessary Trial Type Hearing." (emphasis added).

While we acknowledge that USFS' negotiations with PG&E may have helped avoid a PG&E-initiated trial-type hearing, we are concerned that by doing so, the USFS has denied the same opportunity to all other parties to the proceeding. The right to request a trial-type hearing under the Federal Power Act is not limited to the license applicant. In fact, section 4(e) of the Federal Power Act specifically provides that "[t]he license applicant and any party to [a hydropower licensing] proceeding shall be entitled to a determination on the record, after opportunity for an agency trial-type hearing of no more than 90 days, on any disputed issues of material fact with respect to [conditions required pursuant to section 4(e) of the Federal Power Act]." (emphasis added). The law further provides that "the license applicant or any other party to the license proceeding may propose an alternative" to a section 4(e) condition.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's regulations implementing section 4(e) of the Federal Power Act provide license parties with a 30-day window to request a trial-type hearing after the USFS has filed preliminary conditions with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). In this instance, however, the USFS revised its preliminary conditions less than 48 hours before the deadline for filing a request for a trial-type hearing or filing alternative conditions. Our organizations have carefully reviewed the USFS's January 29 preliminary 4(e) conditions and compared them to the project record. We are generally supportive of those preliminary 4(e) conditions, and do not dispute the underlying factual basis of those conditions. However, because the USFS' revised preliminary conditions were filed at the 11th hour, we have not had sufficient time to review those conditions and determine if we wish to dispute any issues of material fact that form the basis for these revised conditions. By running out the clock on the window identified in its regulations, the USFS has prejudiced other parties to this proceeding who were not party to USFS' closed-door negotiations with PG&E.

American Whitewater and Friends of the River fully intend to exercise our rights afforded under section 4(e) of the Federal Power Act. Within 30 days from the USFS' March 1 filing of its revised preliminary conditions, we will review the USFS' revised preliminary conditions and the record for the McCloud-Pit project in order to determine if they are consistent. If we determine that there is a need to dispute any of the issues of material fact underlying the revised conditions, or if there is a need to file an alternative condition, we will avail ourselves of our statutory rights to do so, not later than 30 days after the Forest Service's March 1 filing.

Sincerely,

Done Stend
